

Act early in a crossing situation.

An early and apparent change of course is a lot safer than a last minute alteration at close range.